is the joke answer to the question should priests be allowed to marry? I always think of this sequence when people ask if ABLE-TOGETHER is "about hooking up disabled with non-disabled guys".

Both of our contributing subscribers in this issue come from the majority of A-T readers who are men who have a disability. They look very different on the surface but I see them as brothers under the skin. Ed Gallagher couldn't come to terms with his being gay and jumped off a dam and is now a spinal-cord-injured wheelchair-user; Jeff Woerner couldn't come to terms with his feelings about being gay and managed to get around them by developing queer habits and now has a mental diagnosis.

Both these men have in the past turned to non-disabled men for intimacy, only to find something missing; in their very different styles, and now through A-T, they are on the threshold of discovering what men with disabilities can give to each other. These mens' writings also speak to those of us who are not disabled and interested in understanding, and connecting with men with disabilities; it may be painful to us to realize that there are parts of you we cannot reach and things we may not be to you - and we hope we may become closer to you by knowing and accepting these things.

Jonathan Farrell has left the Editorial staff and A-T's masthead as he prepares himself to pursue an acting career. Jonathan, we will miss your regular contributions to our evolving endeavor and we are glad you will still be around to offer us occasional help and advice; we thank you for being you and for being there for us this past more-than-a-year - and we look forward to your growth and success in creating more space for disabilities in the culturally significant fields of acting and entertainment.

With this SPRING '96 issue ABLE-TOGETHER becomes seasonal. Apart from this, nothing changes: there will still, as before, be an edition published in each of the publication months of January, April, July, and October - Winter, Spring, Summer, Fall - and continuity will be maintained in the Volume #/Number # sequence. And we won't lose track of your subscriptions, because we code these by a different system. So enjoy the return of Spring.

MY DICTIONARY ON DICKS

-- Ed Gallagher

B

YOU are home and hear the weather's going to stay warm and dry, so you can get away with wearing lighter clothes. You didn't have a chance to roll to the gym today, so you do some shirtless sets of semi-aerobic calisthenics in your chair facing a mirror. Your upper body still hangs okay from the chest up, you are pleased. You contemplate what shirt highlights the muscle you've still got and which color best camouflages the bulge in your partial jelly belly that exasperates many spinal cord injured (SCI) guys like yourself. You wash your face and brush your yellow into whiteness and swish some Lavoris. You'll either shave or leave stubble, wondering which might better attract a handsome stranger to your lips. You choose the stubble because you think you're cuter and tougher that way. A little brushing, a little cologne, you're a cool hot cat ready to purr.

You park downtown after searching the nearby streets for an accessible lot or space that will accommodate a van with a wheel-chair driver like yourself. You exit from your platform lift and close things up. You look for a nearby sidewalk drain to empty the leg bag full of urine you're carrying because you know the club you're entering has a flat entrance but no accessible bathroom. You don't really care if some passerbys appear alarmed at your outdoor drainage habits. You handle this situation because you've done so before and because you have no choice in the matter. Besides, the club you're patronizing always has hot guys to put your mind else-where. You're not going to drink much anyway, for money, driving, and rotten bathroom reasons. It is Happy Hour time. You can get 2 for 1 and take your time downing whatever you choose. In case you do some light boozing, you've protected your digestive tract with a crusty cheese and tomato hero beforehand. Salud.

The bartender knows you and you make some chitchat and order a bottle of brew. You pay him and get back a token for your second drink. The club is nice at this hour, because it's less smokey and less crowded and you can maneuver around in your chair if you wish. You do a little of that, then pick out a strategic area from which to watch entering patrons. Every few moments you wet your whistle with your tongue and peek at music videos blasting above the bar.

You drink slowly and more guys of all ages come through the doors. Some are together and some are alone as they order their drinks and position their bodies in other strategic locations like yours. You think many are well-muscled and hot. You admire the way they look and move and silently tell yourself how forward, sexy, and successful you'd be if your precious body looked and moved the way it used to. You can't help but be tempted and tormented because you still think you look okay and find these guys handsome, but you know that your present day body can no longer keep up with the sexual athletics that most of them might be here for. You are not totally sure what you are here for.

After an hour or so, a nice looking guy in his late twenties or early thirties approaches. You have been eyeing him on and off along with others for a while. You would've liked to roll up to him yourself, but it might've not been done so smoothly. And you would've lost the present position you secured in the event he wasn't really interested and just had been innocently looking your way. You generally feel you are better prepared to meet eligible guys by staying in place, keeping your spot.

He is friendly and attractive and you enjoy talking with him. The inevitable "what happened" question comes soon enough and you give him the pat answer you've practiced and delivered a thousand times before. He is understanding and the look in his eyes tells you he has ideas of getting closer. You are pleased and ask him to pull up a stool next to you. For the next twenty minutes you drink a little and talk about a lot. You are comfortable enough to further relax the atmosphere by massaging his neck with your stronger arm. When you stop, he does the same to your neck and you know that the connection is happening.

He shyly asks about your sensation levels and what your sexual capabilities are like these days. You tell him things have changed a bit in that area, but that your mouth still possesses mysterious powers. Your direct manner stimulates him enough to make a play for your lips. You let him do this and return the action back and forth for a little while. You feel somewhat proud, almost a king among queens. Well, maybe a quing, anyway. You are not embarrassed about public affection because it is a gay bar and because there is really no other accessible place to spend further intimate time with him. You consider taking him into your van, but let that slide. He is a stranger, after all. Maybe you don't really like him that much, but the contact is nice. The moments count. You are hitting it off here. Yeah, you like him. You exchange a final kiss/brace for the evening and he asks for your number. You look cooler and hotter by not requesting his. You keep some cards handy for moments like these. Part of the balls game.

He walks out. Definitely cute. You think about what might happen if he calls. He said he wants to visit you soon, but you never believe words like that in clubs like these. In a way, you don't want to see him again. You know what things will lead to at your apartment. How many times has it happened before? Still, you'll invite him if he calls. It is important to have those close experiences, especially for an SCI guy like you. You are a leader, after all. A terrific kisser with a mouth of gold. A prince in his prime.

He calls the next night and will be coming Friday evening. He goes on about your looks. You are flattered, excited, proud. But your cock does not feel likewise. You know in your heart and mind that problems may lie ahead. Naked and in bed. While you're clutching chest to chest. When your dick ain't like the rest. Are you gonna pass the test?

Dark lights, many cities...

Hey, I'm a confident guy. But somehow, confidence in my sexuality still eludes me, even after similar experiences like the above story. It's unfair and superficial, I know. My penis doesn't agree, no matter how many times my mind shouts, Every bit of sex doesn't have to come through your dick, dickhead! My mind is right, too. I've had intimate contact "naked and in bed" with able-bodied guys a number of times. I'm 38 now, and have had C6-C7 SCI since 1985. My sensation is very limited from the nipples down. My cock can erect, but mainly, the only way I feel it up there is via my own hand. How many of you boys with similar injuries can relate?

I love kissing and touching able-bodied guys. I enjoy being close with men who appear to feel likewise. But often I've felt like nothing more than the available catalyst to get them off. Nothing wrong with that. All in fun. But it can get old, quite fast. Especially when my dick isn't doing the same.

Comparisons are useless, I know that. I've got to believe that this beautiful guy is in my bed because he finds me attractive. He asked me questions about "sexual capabilities" at the club, and I told him. He's here, right? Why do I persist in punishing myself for the things I can no longer do, instead of focusing on the qualities I have which magnetized this man to me in the first place? So he can shoot his wad and I can't. I must delay action periodically to put my dick into a plastic piss catcher. Maybe that's okay with him. Still, I can't believe he's content with the total scene, no matter what he tells me to the contrary. He might assume that I've gotten used to my bodily ways and that it's fine with me. But I haven't, and it's not. Too much spontaneity has been lost to this injury. Too much time spent keeping guard with this injury. Catheters, urinals, bedbags and legbags. Unromantic objects unable to be hidden from display. The haunting truth persists. Ain't no doubt about it. I know how things used to feel. I know how they no longer feel.

This article is not about despair. It's about levels of sexual frustration and searching. Natural regret for certain sensations and abilities we no longer possess is human nature. But one can't stop there. It's also human nature to reach within and unleash the radiance, ability, and appeal we each have with life as it is now. If we choose to. Another matter of choice, as in most things. And I admit that I have some frustrating perceptions on the subject of sex, dicks and disability. What I'm doing here is simply - and complexly - laying them on the line. My truth, for what it's worth.

Sometimes I wonder if I'm becoming more inclined to dive into asexual waters, and see if the dick desires go to sleep. But that's a method of drowning for many of us. Besides, there's always a fresh fish somewhere out there with one's name on it. It's all in the bait, isn't it? I'm glad to spend time with an "abled" guy and stimulate him. I really am. It's not that I get no excitement out of it. If I got zilch, I'd go out and cuddle some dog or cat. Yes, YES! I've had some nice times. But... And, yeah, it's a big one. For me, there's a slight resentment to the orgasmic sensation they're getting, even though I'm happy to help them obtain it. Am I crazy, selfish, jealous, or what? C'mon, I'm only human. I can't help but remember angrily, wistfully, how my former dick responded during similar erotic moments. How it responds no more. And how his does.

This has brought me to a decision. My ultimate sexual goal these days is not to secure some dude's coming cock in my mouth. Or elsewhere. My mind and actions may again change, but I hope I'll stick to this path. Otherwise, I could live the rest of my life casually and restlessly, perhaps never jumping off the silly merry-go-round. Until I'm old and alone, that is. Don't get me wrong. I won't turn away a fling or two if the opportunity and mood arises. But I've got to draw a line, too. I need to believe that it's not my main pursuit. What is? An excellent question, not easy to answer.

I think that I'm searching for a relationship where there's a sexual freedom from comparisons, competitions, and expectations. Fantasy world? I realize that I exert a lot of self-pressure here, but the gay games I've played seem to be heavily based upon exterior looks and performance. And, yes. I'm guilty of being a narcissistic contributor in my own way. Well, maybe it's my late thirties talking, but it's high time to approach this sex situation more maturely.

Two years after my injury, I started seeing guys. I repressed most of my gay sexuality and actions during the "walking years." So it was basically a new deal with me, a chance to be true to my desires during this second chance at life. Though self-conscious with my new role and roll, fortunately I found that many guys viewed me as attractive, despite the wheelchair. I craved that "affectionate approval" during those early years. I had to know that I still looked good enough. But that wasn't enough. I had to see if my actions were good enough. Not so much for him as for me.

My genital experience with abled guys has been extremely one-sided. What I did to them often wasn't even attempted on me. When it was, there was no big orgasmic rush, anyway. Realistically, I must conclude that I, personally, haven't had outright sex, so much as sexual "activity" with all of them. I guess it's the way I define sex. If I ain't coming, I ain't going. Probably a rough determination, but again, my truth. I realize I'm not being fair to myself and many abled guys with this perception. It's ballsy and wrong for me to define sex by the size of one's cock and what it can do, or can't do. Still, possessing one that can't do what I want it to do, I can't help but feel that I'm missing out. Each experience with an abled man only reminds me more. I'm tired of being reminded.

So I look now to experiment with "my own type" of guy. I've seen many guys with SCI whom I find quite handsome. I don't ask myself what their dicks can or can't do during the moments I'm watching them. I only know that I'd often like to move nearer, touch them more closely in intimate ways. Ways where we understand each other's situation, where the obligation to explain isn't required, where there is no dominance or passivity, but a bonding and acceptance. Simple and strong. I've never had a potential SCI partner, but I'm interested. It could be very cool - and very hot. Seeing him as sexy and vibrant could rejuvenate my sexual self-esteem. It would help me better to look in the mirror and appreciate myself in the same capacity. It could help me define sex differently. Maybe even help me cut down on personal dickheadedness...

And will this solve everything? Of course not, but it feels a good move. I'd like to know that what I can give to him and get from him is enough to create prolonged excitement and satisfaction for both of us. And, if that is accomplished, perhaps we both can breathe and kiss and touch - everywhere - a bit easier. We'll discover a more insightful definition of sex as we are. As we are in these chairs.

GOD DOESN'T MAKE ANY JUNK!

-- Jeff Woerner

Okay, I am coming out. Not only in declaring my gayness, but also to say that I have Obsessive-Compulsive Disorder or OCD. I have had this complicated and frustrating mental disorder for sixteen years. This article is an act of courage. It has taken a great deal of courage for me to come out and admit to you what I have gone through each and every day. What is it I do, what are my symptoms? What I do is perform seemingly weird or downright bizarre rituals of counting - mostly numbers - to myself in my mind.

As I tell you this I wonder whether some of you will be inclined to dismiss me as "crazy". Well, just as physical disabilities come in all shapes and sizes and degrees, so does craziness. My craziness is akin to, and some degrees greater than touching wood or not walking on the cracks in the paving; thankfully, I am free from any psychotic symptoms - which means I know what is real, what I'm doing, and how it affects me (I don't like it) and how it impacts you (it makes you uncomfortable). Most importantly, I'm healthy enough to know I don't want to be uncomfortable with myself, that I don't want you to be uncomfortable with me, and that I want to work towards a better life.

In my case, having OCD and being gay are intimately connected. Would it surprise you to know that I grew up a conservative fundamentalist Christian? Over the past six years I have come to accept my being homosexual - and I have learned that I need not use the ritual behaviors of OCD to suppress the much more healthy feelings and thoughts that stem from being homosexual. And sometimes, when I reflect on quite how hard my struggle for self-acceptance as a gay man has been for me, I feel like I've done okay to get by with "just" the symptoms of OCD.

Knowing that I am okay and that I need not assume the stigma of societal outcast has been liberating to me. I am now free to see how my growth as a human being has been set back by the daily stress and strain of dealing with the twin problems of my sexual identity and my ongoing rituals of counting in an effort to suppress my feelings and conflicts as a gay person.

It is still a daily struggle to keep in mind that I can control my compulsive behaviors. And it is still all too easy for me to feel outcast and stigmatized just for being gay and just for having OCD. I feel people can't "overlook" the fact that I have body-language suggestive of being nervous and jittery. When I first met with the terms OCD and neurosis, the response I took upon myself was to see these words as a way for "normally functioning" human beings to criticize me. Now that I have learned that OCD is categorized as one of several types of anxiety disorders I am beginning to see through to the human-feeling perspective that underlies all these labels. Now I have some understanding of where the labels are coming from I find I am likely to feel more understood and less criticized by those around me.

OCD is in fact no more than a very repetitive and painful way of dealing with and ridding the person's mind of unwanted and unpleasant and conflictual thoughts and feelings. I want to be sexual with a male. Oh, God! I will go to hell and be damned forever and lose the love of my parents and friends - and of myself. Imagine the level of anxiety, and its concomitant deep depression, when you really believe this in the very core of your being. Modern medicine has made breakthroughs in the treatment of OCD. I take two anti-depressant medications which happen to work very well when combined. As yet not quite well enough for me to be able to hold down employment but enough for me to have grown confident to say I can accept being gay as well as my disability and disorder. My decision to subscribe to A-T is part of this acceptance.

I encourage other gay and bisexual men with OCD and other anxiety disorders to come out and be counted. If we accept we have tender and sexual feelings towards other males, and are able to share these, are we then able also to accept and acknowledge I feel anxiety, depression - even fear - and I am dealing with it?

Paraplegic. Amputee. Schizophrenic. Manic-Depressive. Ours is a society which loves to label. Well, if labelling is necessary, make mine - at this point in time - a conservatively liberal gay Christian with OCD. I joined A-T with the idea of keeping company with others like me and with nondisabled men who would be open to overlooking my disability. What's just dawning on me is that I may have got it wrong - I'm wondering whether I might have been confusing overlooking with acceptance? Now men who have a disability which they accept are telling me you accept me and my disability; you are inviting me to a deeper level of self-acceptance, helping me to further my understanding of the difference between label-as-stigma and label-signifying-person-in-a-struggle. Thank you for not overlooking and for your deeper understanding that God just doesn't make any junk!

THE MAIL POUCH

I recently got a letter with a very familiar cast to it. Salient extracts are:

...I'm writing you this letter in response to your ad in ABLE-TOGETHER in the earnest and honest hopes we can and will become the best of friends and if possible a lot more in the very near future. A very close friend...sent me these ads...I would give 110% to make something special work...I live in a very small farming town where there's no jobs (24.9%), no future or hopes of ever having anything or anyone special in my life. I'm an auto mechanic by trade and feel I'm an expert. About six years ago I bought a wrecked (NEW) 1990 Trans Am which I rebuilt, restored and customized to total perfection. Because of a lack of business I lost my only job since high school in April of last year. I live with my only relative a grandmother who is 80 years old, very healthy, very strict and very religious...

The writer comes off as a very gentle, subservient and despsperate person. He is willing to do anything...become everything one man could want...&c. This is pretty much a carbon copy of the first letter he wrote me the last time, except then it was his aged aunt, if I recall correctly, his parents were killed in a car accident when he was nine. It all started off with him telling me how glad he was I wrote back, as he prefers an older man, having lost his father. Everything I wrote about myself he loved, in fact desired that particular trait. The correspondence grew to become very intense with as many as two letters from him a day - longing to be with me.

The car is all ready to go and he has it all figured out how much it will take to get to California; I think $450. It would take a little more because of all the mechanic's tools. He would only bring a suitcase and personal items, family photos etc. In spite of all the phone calls and letters I still heard that little voice saying it's too good to be true, isn't it? But I allowed myself to be hooked. I had come to hate his old aunt. I wanted to send him some hemlock for her. She'd rant on about him not going to church, then she'd lock him out of the house at night and he'd sleep in the car.

The next step is, she's getting suspicious about all the calls from a man (me). He'd call me collect from a pay phone, upset and near tears. She told him she'd kill him if he was gay, and he'd never inherit his parents' property (the house they lived in). He starts sneaking the personal items out of the house just in case. All of a sudden I am an accomplice in a conspiracy to get him away from her. She is hot on our tracks, has my phone number because of the phone bills, and has found one of my letters to him. It's in the winter and everything is frozen, snow on the ground. He has to get out, I send him the money, $450.00 - he's on his way.

I hear nothing from him for three days, then a phone call. He's in a motel in some small town about sixty miles from Portsmouth. Somehow the drain plug worked out and he lost the oil -knocked out the connecting rods. It cost $300.00 to repair it. I sent it Western Union.

I didn't hear from him for three weeks. I called his house, his cousin answered. I asked her about him. According to her, he was in Scottsdale, Az. broken down. He was broke, but afraid to call me. She wanted money to send to him. At this point I was broke, so I called a couple of friends. They sent him $300, via her.

Six months later I called his house and a little kid answered. When I asked for him by name, the little kid yelled: Dad! Since then this person's name has surfaced in gay publications...He's ripped off subscribers of Centaur, Chiron Rising, and the Advocate. I suggest you contact these editors. So old aunt didn't exist. He's married with a wife and kid. They live off fleecing lonely older gay men...That's it. I hope you can stop him from scamming others.

Many thanks for generously sharing this painful and compelling story with A-T readers in order to warn us that this person is still in business. We will terminate a subscription if we come to believe that the balance of probability is that the subscriber may be abusing the privilege of involvement in our group. And it is of course very possible that such persons may gain access to copies of A-T without being subscribers. Your great service to us is to remind us of our inner intuitive wisdom which does not depend on 'rational' figuring out: if our voice inside says it's too good to be true we should not be surprised - as you were not - when it turns out that it was not true. And you give us another gift, which is the knowledge of your continued and undimmed hope and faith in finding good and meaningful connection through advertising and correspondence.

...Thanks a lot for being there, and although I haven't yet met any compatible person through A-T I think you're providing a wonderful service for people who otherwise might have a hard time coming together.

I wanted to say thank you for publishing such a well-written periodical... I have Cerebral Palsy and am non-verbal, [and] for years I have been looking for something that addresses the issues of gay men who are disabled... I enjoyed the articles tremendously... All of my friends know that I'm gay, however other people just assume I'm straight. A question often posed to me... is do I like girls? How can I answer that one in three minutes with a communication system? I grin and nod yes, meanwhile I'm thinking but I love to sleep with men - if they only knew! Which brings out my point: if they wouldn't assume, [then] I would not be put in that spot... Yes, this is [a normal part of life for me] and other people who are gay and have disabilities... Keep up the good work, guys!

JW, Tacoma, WA

I... was delighted. When the time comes to renew my subscription I will gladly send the check. I have gotten responses from all across the United States: some from really nice guys and some from not-so-nice guys - just as in life. There are some ads that I would love to respond to because I feel we might have a lot of things in common, but then I read the ad more closely and no... I'm not 24-26 years old, no... I'm not a biker, no... I'm not extremely attractive, no... I don't use crutches, etc... Sure we all have our likes and dislikes but I don't believe that relationships are built on... someone's external features but rather on who they are inside... If guys only knew that maybe they had passed up their soulmate just because they didn't fit the external criteria... Thanks for the articles, I love them.

LR, Fresno, CA

[The reply] was not what I expected. It contained nothing but the pornographic fantasies of the writer. It was obviously the sort of letter which is written on a word processer...he referred to quite explicit sexual acts he would like to perform upon me, which are impossible...I know and he ought to as he himself says he is paraplegic. It was quite a pity as I liked his photo, but it was the two pages of sad sexual illusion which got to me...when I receive a letter from someone for the first time it would be nice if it was less blatantly sexual...[Otherwise] I found your publication...very well set out and informative...

Guys, many thanks for generously sharing with us your varied experiences of A-T; we see both your hopefulness and also your frustration when advertisers seem to be excluding you or when men reach out to you in ways that leave you feeling angry and sad; thank you, David, for not keeping this to yourself - and we think it would be a wonderful gift if you would write to tell this man the impact he has on you, as we are sure he has no idea his way of reaching out is so upsetting to those he wants to connect with.

Cruising the Internet is the ideal medium for men with disabilities. Our disabilities are not the same issue for us in cyberspace as they are in the "real" world. And if we're not in a position to be totally "out" there are ways to ensure our privacy while still enjoying the benefits and excitements of queer electronic friendships. I encourage any of you with the financial resources to consider acquiring a PC and modem: it has opened up whole new worlds for me and perhaps it can for you too.

A GUIDE TO CONTACT AD LISTINGS

How to reply to a coded ad: Put your letter in an envelope, seal it, and put the A-T code # of the advertiser you are replying to in the top right corner of the envelope. Put this envelope, together with the correct reimbursement for forwarding (see below), in another envelope; seal it, address it to A-T and mail it! You may respond to as many coded ads as you wish, and put all the numbered envelopes in one larger envelope to mail to us.

We believe the best kind of ad is the one that gives the reader the clearest picture of who you are. We therefore encourage ad length (but reserve the right to edit) and accurate statements of personal statistics such as age and weight. You should bear in mind that our subscribers are likely to want to know whether you are disabled or abled, so please include this information, and try to be as detailed as you can about yourself and your way of being and presentation in the world, because it very greatly helps both you and potential responders if they can gain a reasonable picture you from the ad. We encourage changes and updates to ads!

Although ABLE-TOGETHER strives without judgment to encourage honest self-expression we are aware that many of our subscribers may feel depersonalized and objectified in response to certain personal contact ad material. Because of the importance A-T attaches to the avoidance of objectification and depersonalization in interpersonal relations we may edit personal contact ads submitted to us which seem to us to contain sexually overly explicit or overly fetishistic material. If you are dissatisfied with this policy we will cancel your subscription.

CALIFORNIA. Visually impaired (legally blind) GWM, 52 years old, 5'8", 160 lbs, brown hair, blue eyes, HIV negative, looking to hear from a nice guy gay black male 21-29 years old. Write Joseph, POB 912, Concord, CA 94522-0912, pb: 510 677 7601.

SAN FRANCISCO. Hello guys, my name's Dale, I'm 36 years old, GWM, quite handsome, 5'8", 180 lbs, hairy, hunky build, brown hair/eyes. I am HIV+ but have remained asymptomatic. Two years ago I suffered a spinal-cord injury and must walk with a cane for distances. My sexual function is AOK - if not better than before! I like men who are masculine in speech and behavior, yet are sensitive, sincere, kind, compassionate, with a good sense of humor. I enjoy men who are at times serious, intelligent, open-minded, friendly, loyal, spiritual, good-natured. I'm a smoker, so I feel more comfortable around other smokers. Some turn-ons/icons: handsome men 35-50, moustache, sideburns, hairiness, baseball hats, boots, cops (kind ones), construction workers, cowboys, outdoorsmen - and veterans like myself. Don't worry - you don't have to be all these things! I am looking for romance, falling in love, kissing, cuddling and long, passionate love-making with a regular guy. Since I'm clean and sober I'd rather avoid men who use drink or who frequent bars. Write me at home: 455 Eddy Street #1104, San Francisco, CA 94109.

I have Parkinson's, but am otherwise healthy and HIV-. LTR is very possible. SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA. Hi! I'm Sam. I'm 30, bald, 5'5", medium build, 175 lbs, Filipino. I was born with hypohidrotic ectodermal dysplasia - a condition characterized by absence of sweat glands and sparse, thin hair. I'm a fulltime student in the health profession with some clinical experience in mental health and starting pre-clinicals in physical dysfunctions. I'm discreet, caring, sensitive, affectionate, and was raised in a conservative religious background. My role as a student in the health profession and being closeted in a non gay-friendly environment easily burns me out. I'm looking for some social life that is relatively active, reciprocal, emotional, and hopefully helpful in "re-charging" my zest in providing quality care for other people. I'd like to meet friendly white/Hispanic/Asian guys, 20-40, who are expressive, sincere, willing to commit, HIV-, non-smokers, not into drugs and hopefully Christian. I enjoy quiet evenings; classical/jazz/dance music; some volleyball, swimming; cuddling; table tennis and any activity that is compensated by keeping my body temperature down since my body heats up easily. Thanks for reading my ad and hope to hear from you soon. E-mail: sladion1@ccmail.llu.edu or replies with correct postage please to A-T #1074.

CALIFORNIA. 44 y.o. post-polio GWM, 6'1", 155 lbs, right leg 1" shorter. I am very active and do not let my limited disability slow me down or keep me from things I enjoy such as bicycling, swimming, camping or long walks. The things I have a passion for are getting lost in the sound of ocean waves, cuddling in front of a fireplace, live theater, picnics, breath-stopping kisses, fusion jazz, C-W music, playing the piano, decorating the Christmas tree. I am looking for a long-term monogamous relationship with a sincere, very affectionate, honest abled or disabled man who has a good sense of humor and can be spontaneous. Age or looks not important. Penpals also welcomed. Larry Rhea, 829 E. Hedges #103, Fresno, CA 93728, ph: (209) 233 7843.

CALIFORNIA. Hi! This is Tim, working in entertainment and for global understanding. I'm 6'2", 30, brown hair/beard (very short), green eyes, 200#, slightly math-impaired. I'm looking for a chubby/heavyset guy with physical disability. I'm into a modern, natural environment, flexible but basically a New Age Democrat. Also into literature, music, dance, singing (I have a karaoke set), TV, radio, theatre, film, long strolls, laying around the house talking and falling asleep in each other's arms...

[sigh]. Prefer men with physical disability such as CP or spina bifida, and replies welcomed from all overweight men. Preferred age range 30's to 70's - old enough to remember the 60's, not old enough to remember WWI. I look forward to your letter and picture/video (returnable). I enjoy traveling, sight-seeing, movies, theater, music including opera and ballet, museums, art galleries, parks, the beach, dining out, and doing whatever is exciting, rejuvenating, invigorating, exotic, and stretching to a person's fullest potential. I also meditate and pray. I am very romantic and imagine being with my lover along the beach and in the moonlight and over a candle-lit dinner; my hope is for a lifetime's relationship of deeply passionate, invigorating sharing at every level, heart to heart, soul to soul, spirit to spirit and body to body. ABLE-TOGETHER full-year subscribers only may submit a personal contact 'ad' for publication for as long as the subscription is active; the ad may be box#-coded for privacy; A-T does not profit from forwarding replies to coded ads, but we do ask that responders reimburse us for our forwarding postage costs - mostly this will be a 32ct stamp; changes and updates to ads are encouraged; A-T reserves the right to edit ads for length and content.

SUBSCRIPTION AND PERSONAL CONTACT AD REQUEST INFORMATION

When you decide to become a full-year subscriber to A-T you have a choice of starting your subscription with either the currently available issue or the next issue. Because your ad (if you submit one) will only be published whilst your subscription is active, this choice affects the number of times your ad can appear! This means that if you want your ad to be published four times during your first year with A-T you must specify that you want your subscription to start with the next issue and your subscription payment and ad must be received by us before the deadline for that issue.

DEADLINES: ABLE-TOGETHER needs your ad copy by 1st July for Summer issue, 1st October for Fall issue, 1st January for Winter issue and 1st April for Spring issue. New, renewed or changed ads reaching us after these dates are not guaranteed to appear in the issue published at the end of that month. We will try, but...

UPGRADES: If you decide to purchase a single copy of the current issue of A-T for $5 you may within three months upgrade to a full-year subscription by payment of the balance of $25, or $10 for persons with low incomes; an upgrade form will be sent to you with your first newsletter.

PENNSYLVANIA. GWM 35 years old with a swimmer's build, 5' 9", 125 lbs, with cerebral palsy. I am masculine and cute. I have my college degree in theatre. I already wrote a play and it was staged at Penn State University in the main campus. Believe me - I don't let my disability stand in my way of anything or anybody. I live on my own, one hour away from Philadelphia and one hour away from New York City. My interests are the theatre, working out at the gym, dancing, going to the beach in the summer, laying in the sun to get a dark tan without a tan line, partying, going to see male dancers, and traveling. Believe me, I do everything and anything. I am looking for someone to be with to enjoy life and to have a blast with. And...Hey, is there any guy out there who wants to take a vacation? Please contact me if you do. I need a vacation so bad. I was thinking about going to one of the islands, just lay out on the beach in our bikinis or...and look at the view. Bill Lasch, 1101 Seneca Street #208, Bethlehem, PA 18015, ph: 610 866 4679.

PENNSYLVANIA. GWM 38, helluva nice guy, 6', 190 lbs of pure pleasure. I have dark brown hair and eyes and a moustache. I remain independent despite the challenges of MS and a severe hearing loss. I've worked in finance for the past twenty years and in my spare time I collect coffee mugs and snapshots of men. During the summer I enjoy watching sunsets, some gardening, watching men on the beach and car rides. In the winter I still do the watching and riding - and spend a lot of time in front of the fireplace. I'm looking for someone special to cuddle with in front of the fire and to share my life with. I'm also looking for penpals - and when you write, please include a snapshot or two. Your sincerity is more important to me than your age or looks. Could you be the special guy that's missing from my life? C'mon, take a chance, you'll be glad you wrote. Replies with correct postage please to A-T #974.

PENNSYLVANIA. GWM, 40, sincere, warm, caring, intelligent, humorous, can be shy, others tell me I'm handsome, dark hair, beard/ 'stache, blue eyes, hairy back-butt-legs, HIV-, person with a disability, power wheelchair user, HIV-, the fixed-income thing. I seek friendships, mutual support, hugs, kissing, safe times. I enjoy computer BBS-ing, videos, music, houseplants, volunteering, hanging out on the campus of the University of Pennsylvania & in their botanical garden, and appreciating the great view from my secure 19th floor apartment. I do not smoke, don't use drugs, I'm not into pain & I've no interest in sports. Write to: Clark F., 3901 Market Street #1913, Philadelphia, PA 19104-3131.

PENNSYLVANIA. Nondisabled gay male, 33, wishes to meet disabled or nondisabled gay male(s) for intimate luncheons, travel, cultural events, concerts (country or jazz or rock), torrid steamy overnight or long weekend trips, or a long-term relationship (and preferably all of the above!). Seeking friends is a given, and this 5'10", beefy, hirsute, mustached and short-bearded bear wants to meet a man with the ability to challenge me intellectually AND sexually; a man with a strong sense of his own identity as well as an unquenchable thirst for intense, romantic, one-to-one lovemaking AND a lack of fear of long-term commitment. I know it's a tall order, but what the heck - even if we aren't attracted to each other as potential lovers, one can NEVER have too many good friends! I prefer someone in my age bracket (30 to 40-ish), but I would not turn away someone in his 20's, 40's or 50's who possesses the character traits I seek. I would also consider relocating, if the individual in question needs this as part of a commitment - all is negotiable! Are you ready for me? Evan M. Malin (use middle initial when calling or writing), Fox Chase Station POB 24725, Philadelphia, PA 19111-0725, ph: 215 725 1781-home, or work-215 884 5052 between 8.30-4.00 EST.

BIG WHEELS KEEP ON TURNING. Do you have dreams of having someone who is hard working, loyal, honest, caring, loving, and has no problem being monogamous? I do too! I hold within my heart the hope and dream that, somewhere out there, there is a GWM or BiM 35 to 55, who is sincerely seeking a stable, loving and caring friendship or a one-on-one relationship. I'm a GWM 43, easily passing for early 30's, 125 lbs, bk/br, with mustache. I have a smooth, boyish swimmer's build. Being half Italian and half French I'm an incurable romantic. I love candlelight dinners, movies, the theater, picnics, letting the rain fall on me, spending time out of doors camping and at the beach, and quiet times at home cuddling. I also have a passion for art and music. Now using a wheelchair, I have turned what many see as a handicap into a positive force of strength and many possibilities. So, if you are looking for a man who is real and who will be by your side through the bad as well as the good times, then either write or call - Stefano, 211 Shannon Street, Gaston, SC 29053-9136, ph (803) 791 1637 - and let's see what happens.

TEXAS. GWM 49, brown/hazel, 5'1", 131 lbs, HIV neg. I am looking for a safe sexual friendship bringing mutual support, perhaps love, lots of cuddling, safe sex, giggles, nonsense and what - but no wedding rings. I see letters and long distance as for getting acquainted, not penpalng - if something clicks, let's plan to meet asap. I'm handsome, mischievously sexual, fit compassionate, but irreverent, and I try valiantly never to take myself too seriously. I have scoliosis (spine curves to right) and an underdeveloped left shoulder from old polio, also slight, seasonal asthma. I teach at a community college. I like old R&R, big band, jazz & classical music (Boccherini, at this writing), astrology (an amateur student of 20 years), museums, art exhibits, UFO stuff, Unsolved Mysteries, X Files, antiques, bookstores, conversation, low fat dining, light exercise, Monopoly, Scrabble and old b&w movies. Please, first be a drug & disease free non-smoker, able to travel (but not necessarily all the way to Texas), - sensitive, fun, fit within your ability, not afraid to try things you haven't, politely & gleefully challenging to authority, a polio survivor, an amputee, or even physically normal. SLEEPLESS IN SEATTLE. I know there is a great guy out there looking for someone special! I'm not looking for Mr. Right Away but I am interested in connecting with someone who is good to himself and those that he holds dear. My last relationship was with a partner of eleven years. Three years have passed and I'm ready to date again. This GWM is 39 yo, 165 lbs, 6'2", brown hair, blue/green eyes. I have two different types of muscular dystrophy. I can't even pronounce it but I have had the disability all my life. It has provided a few challenges but nothing I can't overcome. I work in the computer field and have traveled over 12,000 miles in the last three months with my new job. What preferences do I have? GWM, 25-48, height/weight proportionate, smooth or lightly hairy, a good sense of humor. It doesn't matter to me if you have a disability, small stature, small cock, or what type of job you have as long as you are happy with what you do. I use an electric wheelchair to get around but work out at the college, travel, theater, dining out, concerts, computers, etc. Give me a call, I would love to talk to you. Dan, POB 20549, Seattle, WA 98102, ph: (206) 323 6969.

CANADA

TORONTO. GWM 38, abled, 5'6", well built husky stature, br/hazel, trim beard/'stache, masculine, HIV neg. With a Franciscan spirituality I enjoy most of what life has to offer: making friends, outdoor activities, travel, history, museums, cooking, dining out, quiet evenings, sunrises and sunsets, music, animals and more. I am attracted to blue-collar appearances like workboots, hi-top running shoes and Levi 501's, to long hair and to tallness, also to men with leg braces or prostheses (esp. b/e hooks) - a previous friendship with a man who is an amputee was a very positive experience which I would like to repeat. I am seeking to develop and sustain real friendships with disabled men 18-42 years who live life to its fullest potential. Perhaps you are active in disabled sports, outdoor activities; above all you possess a strong self-awareness, have a realistic approach to life and are willing to invest into a face to face friendship. Penpals ok, all replies will be promptly answered, photo (returnable) and phone appreciated. Write soon, eh? Replies with correct postage please to A-T #316.

OTTAWA. 51 year old nondisabled male, 5'8", retired RCMP, solid, balding, 'stache, healthy guy looking for same, similar or sympathetic; responsive to men with disabilities; interests - body building (sometimes), videos, photos, letters, cards, &c. All letters answered. Roger Cayer, POB 2190 - Station D, Ottawa, K1P 5W4, Canada.

NEW BRUNSWICK. Nondisabled GWM 36, compassionate and genuinely wishing to find a person to share with. Your personality, your determination to live a good life in spite of disability, is what counts for me, not the nature of your disability. I am looking for friends between 18 and 40 years old. I am also looking for the special guy to live with: together we'll both be better off, emotionally, physically, financially. Replies with correct international postage please to A-T #226.

ONTARIO. GWM, healthy, masculine, 33, paraplegic (T-10 incomplete). 6'3, 155#, brown hair/eyes. Very good-looking, very active, muscular upper body. 4th year university student. Financially independent, part-time model. Enjoy travelling, working out, collecting antiques, music and just about anything fun. I have a great attitude and enjoy life very much. CANADA. My name is Donald MacMillan. I was badly brain-damaged in a truckmobile accident almost 20 years ago. I have worked hard at getting my life into order and feel like I am 90% there. I am lonely and would like pen pals. I'd appreciate a picture and will send one in return. Replies with correct postage please to A-T #1003.

VANCOUVER, BC. Hi! I'm a GWM interested in meeting new people, either on a friendship level, or dating - with hopes of it developing into a long term relationship with the right person. I've been told I'm not bad to look at and appear younger than my 31 years. I'm 5'8", 135 lbs, with brown hair and eyes. I have an invisible disability called fibromyalgia. This mainly manifests as muscle and joint pain in my legs, which can limit the amount of walking I'm able to do in a day. Symptoms can range from barely noticeable to uncomfortable. I eat well, do yoga and work out a couple of times a week. I'm somewhat Bohemian. I like music from funk/soul and garage/house through to Joni Mitchell, Laurie Anderson and ambient stuff. Currently a student living in Vancouver, Canada - and contemplating relocation. Previously worked in fashion and commercial photography in London, England. An industry full of stress and nastiness - don't miss it much, but do miss "The Big City" sometimes. I have access to almost free worldwide flights and would love to visit others who are sincere, authentic and humorful. Write me at: Andrew Jack, 2170 Wall Street, Vancouver, BC, V5L 1B5 CANADA.

VANCOUVER, BC. I am a dignified single gay retired bookkeeper, 61 years of age with a good sense of humour. Non-smoker. 5'10". 135 lbs. (How much does a leg weigh?) I value honesty, integrity, gentleness. Being independent I pay attention to my physical and emotional well being. Working with limited funds is a creative progress for me. I am active and fit, enjoying walks, swimming, downhill skiing. At home you will find me listening to classical music (opera in particular). I love cooking & often have small dinner parties. I lost my left leg in a train accident when I was four. For mobility I use crutches, at home I rely on my artificial leg for support (it's more practical although I am a great hopper). I am looking for a gay, able, non-smoker who I can ask to help me with what I cannot do myself, i.e. carrying my ski equipment, but not someone to nurse me - remember I am independent! I have a great need of TLC, someone I can feel close to! Someone mature - regardless of age - someone who is fit and who shares - if not all - some of my interests. Please write me: Christian Brix, 1655 Barclay Street #1504, Vancouver, British Columbia, Canada, V6G 2Y1. Fax: (604) 685-5065. e-mail: cbrix@freenet.vancouver.bc.ca

MIDLANDS, ENGLAND. I am a semi-retired, middle-aged businessman with numerous activities and live 50 miles north of London. I became paraplegic in 1973 after a car accident in Spain. I cannot walk and use a wheelchair. I am HIV negative. I drive and travel a lot, to Africa as well as in Europe. My other home in Spain is where I go to get away from it all - I swim in my pool and just let the world go by. I consider myself a straight man who just happens to prefer other men; I am in no way hung up about my sexuality but find that I do not fit into the gay "scene". I am serious in my intentions to find the right person, someone who thinks as I do. Sex is not first on my list, friendship is. I know I have the right qualities for a relationship. My interests are many, mainly healthy activities. I am English, also speaking fluent Spanish, conversational French and a bit of Arabic. I get along well with ethnic types and enjoy learning different cultures. I like men who know who they are. I will answer all letters with photo, which I shall return to you with one of mine. I love talking on the 'phone as I feel it's more personal than writing - but in the first instance please write with correct postage to A-T #752.

ABLE-TOGETHER's Winter, Spring, Summer and Fall issues are published and mailed to subscribers at the end of the months of January, April, July and October; A-T is also available for purchase at certain gay/progressive bookstores across the US and in the UK.

ABLE-TOGETHER seeks to discuss current disability issues from a perspective which emphasizes the generation of positive-feeling in interpersonal relationships. Subscribers to A-T are encouraged to contribute letters, opinions and articles.

ABLE-TOGETHER is news: A-T has been written up in New Mobility, in the newsletters of the American Association of Physicians for Human Rights and of the Boston Information Center for Individuals with Disabilities, as well as in local and regional gay newspapers such as the San Francisco Bay Area Reporter and All Points North in the UK. A-T is also politics and history and our subscribers include the World Institute on Disability in Oakland, California, the Homodok Archives in Amsterdam, The Netherlands and the Gay and Lesbian Historical Society in San Francisco.

ABLE-TOGETHER applies subscription, sales and donation revenues to production, advertising and outreach costs. A-T's international outreach program includes sending informational materials to independent living centers and distributing flyers to the disabled students' programs and the gay and lesbian students' associations of colleges in the US, Canada and the UK; A-T advertises in US regional gay newspapers, and nationally in New Mobility, Advocate Classifieds and the Disability Rag. A-T welcomes suggestions from subscribers on outreach policy.

ABLE-TOGETHER full-year subscribers only may submit a personal contact ad for publication for as long as the subscription is active; ads may be box#-coded for privacy; changes and updates to ads are encouraged; A-T reserves the right to edit ads for length and content.
